FROM THE CHAIR

FFMA has been on a wild ride over the past year and 2018 looks even better as we continue to outpace our goals for membership and education, develop deeper connections within the legislative community, and strengthen the role of floodplain managers working for government and the private sector.

First and foremost, congratulations to the Association for being nationally recognized by ASFPM with the Outstanding Chapter Award at the 2017 National Conference! The award acknowledges the countless hours volunteered by our Board and general membership to support Florida communities as well as the development of organizational tools that will help other ASFPM Chapters echo our successes. The afterglow of the award was short-lived as another devastating hurricane season challenged our members and partner agencies. However, the flood events also provided an opportunity for FFMA to take on new roles in recovery and raised our profile within the broader floodplain management community. We were asked to broadcast our message at external conferences, draft a position paper for establishing Higher Education programs within the State University System of Florida, and provide feedback on proposed state and federal legislation to the benefit of our members.

We look forward to a strong 2018 that will see our 900+ (!) members with a new Executive Board, new branding, and over 50 trainings offered. It has been my privilege to serve you and I look forward to supporting FFMA with its critically important role in fostering safe, beautiful, and resilient communities.

In your service,
Chris Zambito, CFM
Chair
